

Minnesota Association of Floodplain Managers

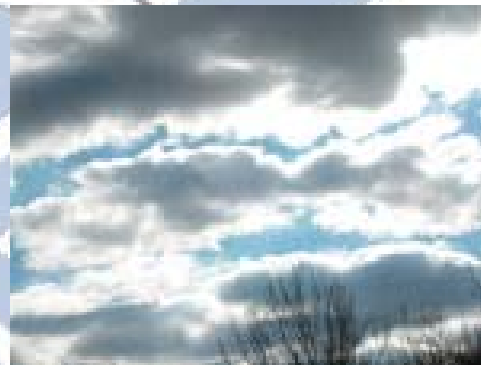

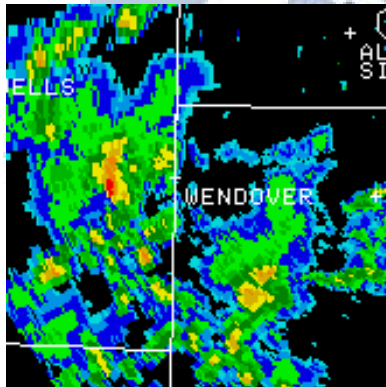

May 17, 2005

Spring Luncheon Meeting at

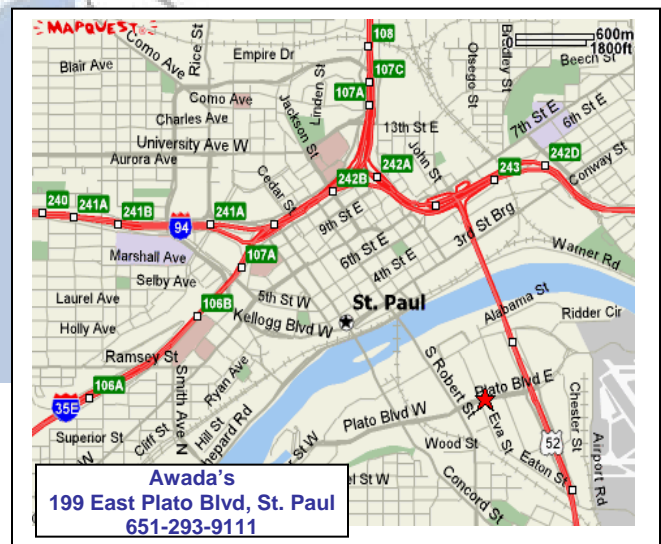

Mr. Steve Buan is the Hydrology Program Manager for the Twin Cities/Chanhassen National Weather Service (NWS) office. He holds a Master's Degree in Forest Hydrology from the University of Minnesota and has spent the past 15 years forecasting river stages and flows in the Upper Midwest for flooding, navigation, and water supply. Steve will present an overview of the NWS hydrologic services, where to find water and weather information, and how that information can be used for planning from hours to months in advance.
